

Bio – Cheryl Morgan

Cheryl Morgan, Director, The Diversity Trust.

Cheryl dedicates much of her time to addressing equalities issues and feels that there is still much work to be done. She comments: 'I grew up in an era when shops still displayed notices saying, "No Blacks, No Dogs, No Irish". We've moved on since then, but we still have a long way to go. The ceaseless attacks on trans people in the national media, and the rise in hate crimes of all sorts since the Brexit vote show just how far we have to go.'

Cheryl, a trans woman, is an active member of the Women's Equality (branch officer), a presenter of women's interest show on Ujima Radio and a trainer/facilitator on The Diversity Trust's trans-awareness courses. She's also an expert on feminist science fiction.

She's delighted to be able to make a positive contribution as a Diversity Trust podcast interviewer, quite rightly acknowledging that it's '100 years since we got the vote, and the country is still run by men who have no interest in women's issues. See the WEP Manifesto for detail'.
